HEALTH WORK IS REPORTED

193 CHILDREN OUT OF 289 ARE FOUND DEFECTIVE.

259 VISIT DEPARTMENT

Chest Clinic Report Also Given in Dr. C. P. Fryer's October Statement.

Out of 289 children examined by the county health department during the month of October, 193 children were found defective with 655 defects found, according to the October report of that department as made today by Dr. C. P. Fryer, county health officer.

In Dr. Fryer's summary of the work for that month, he says:

"The chest clinic of the Nodaway County Tubercular Association was held in the offices of our department and was well attended, and quite an interest has been aroused in regard to health examination. The usual regulations in regard to control of communicable disease has been carried out.

"I made talks in several places in the county on vital statistics and urged parents to see that their children were registered.

"The Parent-Teachers' Associations throughout the county have pledged their help in securing registration.

"Both our health nurses attended the state nurses' meeting in St. Louis and report a very interesting and successful meeting."

The report of Edith M. Cramer, public health nurse with the county department, states she visited seven schools during October, made sanitary inspections of that many schools, examined 144 pupils, and found 96 of the pupils defective, and made seven class talks. The nature of these defects of the pupils was:

Malnutrition, 7 per cent or more, under weight, 48; obesity (20 per cent or more overweight), 2; defective hearing, 1; defective vision, 15; other eye defects, 30; defective teeth, 68; enlarged diseased tonsils, 47; mouth breathing, 26; skin eruptions, 4; enlarged glands, 38; mental and nervous, 2; orthopedic 4; speech defects, 3; miscellaneous, 7; and suspected goitre, 28.

The repot of the county health department for October follows:

Educational Lectures, 20; attendance 789; bulletins distibuted, 800; newspaper articles, 15; circular letters, 2400.

Sanitary inspections—Private premises, 10; public premises, schools, churches, stores, camps, etc., 8.

Acute communicable disease control—Visits to cases, carriers, contacts, or suspects, 10; cases or carriers isolated or quarantined, 3.

Tuberculosis control — Numbers examined, 11; positive, 1; negative, 10; home visits, 2.

Child hygiene—Babies and children examined, 9; office consultations, mothers, 9.

Talks to classes or drills in hygiene, 15.

There were 5 septic tanks installed; 4 new sewer connections; 2 new water connections; and 2 wells or springs improved.

There were 250 adults who visited the health office during October.

Reportable diseases—Chickenpox, 2; typhoid fever, 1; one death from lobar pneumonia; and two deaths from pulmonary tuberculosis.

Miss Ruth Bush who is taking nurse's training at the Missouri Methodist Hospital at St. Joseph, spent the weekend here with her parents, Mr. and F. A. Bush.

A suit on note brought by Mrs. Geneva McCleave against her mother, Mrs. Cora B. Templeton, in Circuit Court, has been dismissed by Mrs. McCleave.

A bogus check charge against L. D. Moody was dismissed yesterday.

One Bid Received For New Bridge

No Action Had Been Taken at Late Hour for Bridge West of Conception.

One bid was received by the county court this afternoon for a bridge of 150-foot steel span high truss, pin-connected, on steel beam foundation, to be placed over the Platte river one-half mile west of Monastery siding, near Conception. This bid was from the Standard Bridge Co., of Omaha and was for $8,686. The bridge will probably be here within the next ninety days.

At a late hour this afternoon, the court had not announced any action on the bid.

J. Ross Fleetwood To American Royal

County Agent Also Will Attend Exhibition At Sni-A-Bar Farms, Monday.

Many persons from Nodaway County are attending the American Royal Livestock Show in Kansas City this week. J. Ross Fleetwood left today for Kansas City, where he will attend the show and the district meeting of county agricultural agents. The districts from which the agents will come includes Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Colorado, Arkansas, New Mexico, Kentucky, North Dakota and South Dakota.

A group of Maryville High School students under the supervision of Elmer R. Coates, instructor of agriculture in the high school, left yesterday to attend the stock show and will return Wednesday or Thursday. Those who went were: Vernon Taylor, Owen Thompson, Dale New, Robert Hughes, Harris Wells, Noble Florie, Edwin Manley, Sam Dooley, Orin Garrett, George Hepburn, George Epperson, Hans Nielson and Marvin Lyle.

Mr. Fleetwood, accompanied by Mrs. Fleetwood and Miss Loa Fleetwood, will attend the Missouri-Kansas football game at Columbia, Saturday.

Monday, Mr. Fleetwood will attend the exhibition of stock at Sni-A-Bar Farms. He will return to Maryville, Monday night.

Other persons from this county who are attending the American Royal are Hal Catterson and W. A. Berg.

Sheffield to Leave for Mexican Post

Washington, Nov. 16.—Ambassador Sheffield will return to his post in Mexico City soon with full confidence of President Coolidge, the White House spokesman said today.

American Rancher Kidnapped by Bandits

El Paso, Nov. 16.—Clyde Fields, American rancher, was kidnapped and held captive several days by thirteen Mexican revolutionists, who erossed into Chihauhau, November 1, according to word received by the Department of Justice here today.

Fields was in charge of a ranch in the territory about 95 miles southeast of Sierra Blanca, Tex. The revolutionists took eight horses from his ranch and forced Fields to accompany them.

Five-Day Week For Navy Yards Proposed

Washington, Nov. 16.—A proposal that the Navy Department seriously consider application of the five-day week in the Navy yards was offered today in the hearing of the Navy wage board by President James O'Donnell of the metal trade department of the American Federation of Labor.

O'Donnell pointed out that since the war it has been impossible to maintain a standardized regularity of employment and offered other arguments in favor of the short working week, which, he said was being successfully used by a number of large commercial concerns.

A Trade Balance of '74 Millions in October

Washington, Nov. 16.—The United States had a favorable trade balance of $74,000,000 in October the commerce department announces.

Merchandise exports for October totaled $457,000,000. Imports for the month were $383,000,000.

For the ten months ending October 30, exports totaled $3,866,488 and imports $3,705,092,000 leaving a favorable balance for the ten months of $161,396,000.

Exports for October as compared with the same month last year showed a loss of approximately $33,500,000. The loss in trade balance was $42,500,000.

A. S. PHILLIPS HEADS BOARD

GOVERNOR NAMES WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION BODY.

BRUNK THE SECRETARY

Dr. George A. Auerswald, Now Food And Drug Inspector, Is Made Medical Adviser.

Jefferson City, Nov. 16.—Governor Sam A. Baker today announced that Alroy S. Phillips, now prohibition officer of Kansas and Missouri, had been appointed and had accepted chairmanship of the new state workmen's compensation board.

Other members of the commission include Everett Richardson, Grandy, Mo., Republican, and Orin Shaw, Jefferson City, Democrat.

State Senator Larry Brunk was appointed secretary of the commission and Dr. George A. Auerswald of De Soto, now food and drug inspector, was appointed medicinal inspector of the commission.

All employers of 10 or more persons automatically will be thrown under the provisions of the workmen's compensation act approved by the voters of Missouri by referendum in the recent election.

The act becomes effective at once. Employers may reject the act by due notice in writing to their employes, but, so doing, they forfeit the defense in damage suits of contributory negligence by the employe, negligence of a fellow employe or that the risk was assumed by the employe. Similarly, the employe may reject the act but without penalty.

Basis of Compensation.

Compensation, following injury, is based upon two-thirds of the average weekly wage of the employe in the year prior to injury, but in no case less than $6 or more than $20 a week. The period of compensation varies as follows:

Total temporary disability—Maximum of 400 weeks.

Partial temporary disability—Maximum of 100 weeks.

Partial permanent disability—Maximum of 400 weeks, with addition of as much as $1000 for disfigurement or mutilation of the face or head.

Total permanent disability—Compensation for 300 weeks at two-thirds of average compensation within the limits of $6 and $20 a week and thereafter on basis of one-fourth of average earnings, within the limits, for the remainder of life. Total blindness, the loss of both hands, total and permanent paralysis and incurable insanity are specified as total permanent disability.

Provisions for Dependents.

Death caused by injury—If employe leaves a totally dependent person—widow or child under 18—employer must pay dependent two-thirds of average weekly wage for 300 weeks in installments of not less than $6, nor more than $20 a week. Partial dependents receive compensation in the ratio that they were dependent upon the wage earner at the time of his death.

In death from injury the employer must pay burial expenses up to $150 and expenses of last illness up to $250.

In addition to all other compensation, the employer is required to provide medical and hospital treatment within 60 days following the accident, but not exceeding $250 unless the commission finds further treatment is necessary within one year.

Compensation will be increased or diminished under the following circumstances: Increased if employer violates statute or order of commissioner created to administer it. Diminished if employe fails to use safety devices or ignores reasonable rule of which he was informed. Suicide or self-inflicted injuries will not be compensated, but the burden of proof that injury was intentionally self-inflicted lies with employer.

Appeal to Courts.

Compromise settlements are not valid unless approved by the compensation commission. The final award of the commission is conclusive unless an appeal is taken to Circuit Court of the county in which the accident occurred, but the Court shall review only questions of law. Appeals take precedence in court over everything but election contests.

Employers having fewer than 10 employes are placed within the act if the employer's occupation is hazardous and employers with fewer than 10 em-

Hall-Mills Witness Tells of Bribe Hint

Offered $2,500 to Change Story by Detective Employed by Mrs. Hall, Says Woman.

Courtroom, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 16.—Mrs. Marie DeMarest testified in the Hall-Mills murder case today that a detective at one time in the employ of Mrs. Frances Stevens had "hinted" she might receive $2,500 if she would change her story in the murder investigation.

Mrs. DeMarest had testified last week that she had seen Henry Stevens, one of the defendants, in New Brunswick the day after the murder. Stevens had maintained that he did not even know of the murders on that day and did not visit New Brunswick until two or more days after Dr. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills were killed.

FAR APART ON CUT IN TAXES

A REDUCTION, BUT NO TELLING HOW OR WHEN.

THREE PLANS OFFERED

Estimate of Treasury Surplus Mounts.—Question Not Yet Before Ways and Means Committee.

Washington, Nov. 16.—There will be a tax reduction soon—but how much, when and where are questions which have both the executive and legislative branches of the government puzzled today.

A check-up of developments at the White House, Treasury, House and Senate discloses an existing dissatisfaction and disagreement over the proposed legislation unequaled in recent years.

In the first place, the House ways and means committee, which must initiate any action upon the administration proposal for a tax cut, is in session upon the relatively unimportant matter of alien property claims, with no immediate intention of taking up the tax reduction matter.

Chairman Green says he does not know when the committee will get around to discussion of the tax proposals. Some members of the committee say the leaders think it unwise to press the tax reduction question in its present condition, with no two of them in agreement on what should be done.

The leaders are doing missionary work to win converts to some modification of the Treasury's proposal. When this plan delevops sufficient strength, work will be begun on a bill or resolution, it is said.

The administration proposal has been changed three times. First President Coolidge declared in favor of a 10 to 12 per cent rebate on taxes this year. Next Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, declaring the President had been misunderstood, offered a plan of reducing payments to be made beginning March 15 by 12½ per cent. Late yesterday the secretary declared the reduction could be increased to 15 per cent in view of new estimates that the Treasury surplus would reach $400,000,000 instead of $250,000,000, as estimated two weeks ago, and $300,000,000, as estimated last week.

Gantt to Keep Old Office Until Jan. 1

Successful Candidate for Supreme Court Judge Receives Congratulations From Otto.

Mexico, Nov. 16.—Judge Ernest S. Gantt, successful candidate for Division No. 1 of the Missouri Supreme Court, will continue to preside over the 11th judicial district until January 1, he announced today.

The circuit comprises Audrain, Warren and Montgomery counties, and Judge Gantt has served in the district for ten years.

The judge today received a telegram of congratulation from Robert W. Otto, his Republican opponent.

This removed any chance of there being any contest over the election, which was one of the most spirited in the history of the office.

Bandits Cut Through Bank Safe; Get $10,000

McClure, Pa., Nov. 16.—Bank bandits early today broke into the First National Bank of McClure and escaped with cash and negotiable securities valued at more than $10,000.

The bandits cut way through the outer safe wall with an acetylene torch.

U. S. NOT TO OWN WHISKEY

PLAN TO DISTRIBUTE MEDICINAL LIQUOR IS REJECTED.

TO ASK FOR CONTROL

Bill to Be Submitted to Congress by Prohibition Administrator Would Stop Leaks.

Washington, Nov. 16.—The administration today definitely decided to abandon any idea of government ownership and distribution of medicinal liquors.

"It would be too much like the government going into the wholesale whiskey business," a high Treasury official told the United Press. "Legislation to give the government absolute supervision over medicinal liquor will be placed before Congress, but we will not ask authority to purchase outstanding supplies."

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews, in charge of prohibition enforcement, advanced the proposal for government ownership last spring, and it was promptly vetoed by President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon.

Andrews now has a measure for submission in Congress to give the prohibition administrator complete control of bonded liquors, without ownership. Under the present law, bakers, candy manufacturers, cigar makers, and perfume manufacturers can purchase medicinal liquors on their alcohol permits, and Andrews asked that this situation be changed.

There is now only about five years supply of medicinal liquor in the country. The proposed legislation will ask authority to permit distillers to turn out about 3,000,000 gallons of Bourbon and rye whiskey annually.

Kansas Ouster of Klan Is Challenged

Brief in U. S. Supreme Court Argues That Georgia Corporation Cannot Be Ordered Out.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Right of the Kansas State Supreme Court to order the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, a Georgia corporation, to refrain from operating in Kansas, was challenged today in a brief filed in the United States Supreme Court.

The brief, an appeal from the Kansas decision, asserts such an order "cannot be enforced against a foreign incorporated society, engaged in the propagation of political, religious, scientific and patriotic principles and doctrines."

The Klan did not obtain permission to conduct business in Kansas, as is required in that state under its foreign corporation law, the state held.

Filipinos Refuse to Accept Wood's Order

Members Of Insular Board of Control Serve Notice They Will Continue To Exercise Functions.

Manila, Philippines, Nov. 16.—Manuel Quezon and Manuel Roxas, members of the Philippine board of control which Governor-Geneal Leonard Wood recently abolished, have given the governor written notice of their refusal to recognize his order. Consequently the board will meet Saturday to name new directors for the National Coal Co., a government concern which has been controlled by the board.

General Wood is not expected to attend the meeting, although he has received formal notice of it. Quezon and Roxas are the majority members and will therefore name the directors. If Wood attempts to name a separate directorate, as legal rulings give him power to do, he will come into direct conflict with the Filipinos.

Quezon contends that the board had sole authority over government enterprises and that when Wood abolished the board he likewise cancels his own authority.

A Partition Suit Filed.

A suit for partition of the Hagey estate land was filed in the circuit clerk's office today by Benjamin Hagey, et al, against Effie G. Williams, et al.

A NEW GOVERNMENT ACTIVITY.

Along with the rise in coal, it is said that silk stockings are to go higher. The government bureau of standards, after a thorough investigation of the subject, has decreed that ladies' hosiery should be 27.5 inches from heel to top and announces that this stocking will come eight inches above the knee of the average woman. This august body also announces that this decision does not involve any principle of modesty or morality but is made that manufacturers may give to the consumers a square deal. The idea of comfort, warmth and utility seems to be the uppermost consideration. The government is, as usual impractical. Women, generally speaking, don't want comfort, warmth nor utility. They want style and brevity in all things. If the manufacturers obey this order, it probably means that the skirts will have to be further shortened or that the flapper will have to roll hers about eight inches which means quite a roll.

It is sometimes difficult to tell whether the political manipulations of a convention or the indifference of the public in selecting nominees for important offices is the worse for the state. It was thought, when these matters could be turned over to the people themselves, everything would be vox populi, vox dei, but the matter of selecting state and district nominees is sometimes done so carelessly and slovenly as to be not only damaging to the party but dangerous to the state. The democrats of Kansas this year settled all chance the party might have had for success when they nominated former Governor Davis for another term. It is hardly possible that a convention of politicians who cared at all for party success would have made that mistake.

Kansas City had a big day Thursday. With the President of the United States and the Queen of Roumania both as guests of the town on the Kaw the same day, Kansas City may be excused for a time if she displays a feeling that all other towns in the Middle West should clear off the sidewalk when she comes along.

The big city papers have ceased to mention the majority against the repeal of the prohibition laws in Missouri since the early estimates of 60,000. The majority against Proposition No. 4 was 138,296, St. Louis City and County gave a tremendous majority in favor of it which means that the majority outside of St. Louis is overwhelming.

And then, don't you know, while we're cancelling all those war debts, it would be in harmony with the spirit of the occasion if the debtors would give back about half of those territories, mandates, and business concessions they got out of the war.

Observing Marie in action, we can't be quite sure whether she's the queen or the king, but she's certainly a trump.

THE QUEEN'S CIGARETS.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union of Kokomo, Ind., sends a letter to the Queen of Roumania, as follows:

"We deplore the rumor that the press hands out that Roumania's honored and beautiful queen is a smoke addict, and we are loath to believe she does not understand the pernicious effects of smoking."

Other organizations in this country have considered censuring the queen still more harshly, if they have not actually done so.

As for the queen's smoking, it isn't rumor but fact. She has smoked cigarets at some public dinners in this country. Whether she smokes regularly is not divulged. The impression created when she started all this comment by smoking at a welcoming dinner in New York was that she did it to make her hosts feel at ease—the air around her was blue with smoke.

However that may be, perhaps there is nothing immoral or prejudicial to the public welfare of our beloved country in suggesting that whether the queen smokes or not is probably the queen's own business. This is the only country in the world where she would be likely to incur uncomfortable criticism in such a personal matter.

The queen could doubtless find plenty of things to criticize in American life if she wanted to.

EUROPE FALLS BEHIND.

Figures compiled by League of Nations experts show that in the last 14 years Europe has fallen sadly behind in population and trade, with the Western Hemisphere and the antipodes running away from her.

North America has increase 20 per cent in population, South America a little more, and Australia and New Zealand 17 per cent while Europe has gained only 1 per cent.

In the same period Europe's foodstuffs and raw materials have increased 4 to 5 per cent, while they increased 25 per cent in North America and Asia and 33 per cent in South America.

The center of the world trade, the Geneva experts say, has shifted from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Central Europe is reviving, but Europe as a whole is far behind the procession and seems likely to stay behind.

THE SOCIAL WORKER.

Many people think of the social worker as a businesslike, rather hard young person, who speaks a patter consisting of long words for the most part unintelligible; a young person tied by routine and red tape, treating all cases of a given class alike, with no regard to individual circumstances.

This, however, is a superficial judgment. The young social worker is apt to seem hard as the young physician does, and for the same reason. If she permitted herself to be ruled by emotion in handling the cases which every day would wring her heart, she could not bring to bear the calm judgment which alone can help her clients. The ideal to which these young people aspire, and which many of them attain, as witnessed by their successes, was well put by Elizabeth Dutcher of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities in a recent address on the care of the aged:

"There are certain personal assets, gifts from on high, which in a sense have little to do with training, but which will be of great help in winning affection and confidence, so necessary in these situations. These qualities are cheerfulness, tolerance, sympathy, honesty, patience, the ability to be a good listener, and that sympathetic imagination that we call putting oneself in the other person's place. These are lovable qualities in anyone, but will especially endear the case worker to her old client. The family case worker in trying to meet the problems of aged persons should try to give the client opportunities to think and do and be stimulated. She should try to supply to the bewildered, friendless, helpless old client some substitute for the family life that was once hers."

This is sufficient answer to those who turn away from organized charity on the ground that it is "cold and unfeeling."

SONS OF THE PIONEERS.

(Milwaukee Journal).

Lack of purpose is the cause for the younger generation's turning away from the old and accepted ways, says Walter Lippman, of the New York World, speaking before Wisconsin teachers. Here is a thought worth consideration. We have all been told that this new generation took to jazz music off-color literature, off-color dances, off-color other things, just because of the wickedness in their young souls. Parents have been urged to do something about it, with suggestions of spanking the wild youngsters or locking them in their rooms.

There has been a letdown, a departure from old standards—no doubt about that. And parents can be a mighty force for correction. But maybe we haven't got to the bottom of the matter. The older generation in a state like Wisconsin had a purpose. It was busy conquering physical obstacles and building on what was conquered. That done, the conquest brought ease and comfort—also the end of purpose. It is the way of enjoyment.

Figure it out for yourself. Suppose all these things were wiped out at one stroke—our cities, our roads, our schools, our farms, our industries. That would be the end of jazz, wouldn't it? There would be such a planning, and digging and building as one never saw before. Young men and women with a purpose would be born overnight. Of course we do not want to do that—destroy what we have—but the illustration shows what purpose will do. Perhaps we should get along faster if, instead of dwelling so much on repression, we found a way of giving this new generation something vitally worth while to do.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

Washington—The last serious obstacle which stood in the way of the success of the aerial express has been overcome, so they say at the aviation division of the Commerce Department.

It was accomplished through the understanding by which the National Air Transport and the American Railway Express agree to work together.

The chief difficulty in the past has been in getting parcels to and from flying fields. The Transport was prepared to carry goods entrusted to it, but it couldn't send a plane to a would-be shipper's door to get them or make door-to-door deliveries to consignees. That's what the American Railway Express will attend to in future.

Commerce Department officials say it will make all the difference between a service of very qualified and of very qualified and of unlimited utility.

Between New York and Chicago, aerial transport saves a day's time over transportation by rail.

Aviation fields are conveniently available at both points. The shipper can put his parcel directly on board a plane. The consignee can meet the plane and get what's coming to him. A day's saved.

But suppose a shipper lives in Poughkeepsie and a consignee in Peoria. The former must ship by rail to New York. There, unless he has an agent waiting and everything is coordinated, there's delay in getting the parcel into the Air Transport's hands. Between Chicago and Peoria there's more delay.

On the aerial part of the parcel's trip a day is saved all right, but what good does that do if a day is lost before the flight starts and another after its finish?

This takes organization—men on the job, swift automobiles, and coordination of schedules. The combination has been lacking hitherto. Now it has been supplied.

Deposed King of the Portuguese Spends Birthday in London

London, Nov. 16.—Former King Manoel of Portugal quietly celebrated his 37th birthday at his home here today.

Manoel was born in Lisbon, November 15th, 1889 and although he was Prince Infanta at the death of his father, King Carlos, he succeeded to the throne within a few hours of his father's death on November 15, 1909. It was on this date that the King, accompanied by Queen Amelia, the Crown Prince and Prince Manoel, while riding through Lisbon, were attacked by revolutionists. King Carlos died almost immediately and was survived by only a few hours by the Crown Prince. Manoel was immediately proclaimed King.

Manoel reigned for less than three years when revolutionists deposed him and Portugal was proclaimed a republic. After leaving Portugal, Manoel travelled about Europe for two years, finally establishing himself in London, where, after 15 years of absence from the splendor of the Lisbon Royal Palace, a small shadow court still pays homage to "the King."

Manoel and his wife, formerly Princess August Victoria of Hohenzollern whom he married in Germany in 1913, are very prominent in London's best society. Manoel is an ardent sportsman, being very fond of golf, tennis and horseback riding.

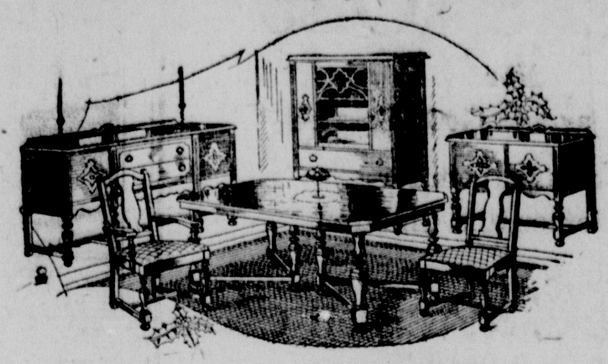
Where Your Patronage Is Appreciated.



One has to be rich to afford poor furniture---

Furniture that is made "for a flash and to sell at a price" does not wear long. It becomes "wobbly," the joints open, the finish wears off, it becomes an eyesore about the home and must soon be replaced.

Then, if cheap furniture is bought the SECOND time the same thing happens.

So, you see how expensive it is to buy this cheaply made, flash-appearing so-called furniture.

A true artisan will not work in a factory where "plunder" is made. He takes pride in his work, visions the room and the home which is to be influenced by his handwork; pictures the pleasure and comfort it will bring the whole family—with the result that you get furniture that must be bought but ONCE!

Is there anything more important to you than environment in your own home? We think not. However, sometimes we neglect.

We will consider it a pleasure if you will let us discuss our credit service and plan with you—and this entails on obligation to purchase.

This and That

Husbands have been called many names and 'things' from the 'lesser half' to a 'meal ticket' but J. Ross Fleetwood, county agricultural agent, has a report at his office from a household improvement club and the one "kitchen improvement" made by a Nodaway County woman this year is given as "a new husband."

If one were looking for another "fellow's" job which looked better than his own, it seems to me Silas M. Stanley's job is ideal. His "business" took him to Springfield when the Bearcats played there; it was "business" that took him to Cameron when the High School here played there, and his "career" took him near Kirksville when the Bearcats played there recently. However, more "ugent business" took him to see another game that day. And too, it was "business" that made it possible for him to see all the games played in Maryville this year. He is in the loan business. Three cheers for the loan business!

Partial Payment Plan Praised by Auto Man

Present Popular Method of Buying Is Defended as Boon to Business and Prosperity.

Washington, Nov. 16.—One of the greatest boons to business and contributions to the existing prosperity of the country is the installment selling plan, according to Alfred Reeves, General Manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

Reeves said installment selling was perfectly safe to both the buyer and seller as long as it was not carried to extremes. He claimed it had enabled quantity production and was in a large measure responsible for improved living conditions.

"The installment selling plan," he said, "provides a needed service to the public, supplies the articles at a lower cost and helps to maintain the high standard of living that makes America what it is. Budgeting one's income makes spending more efficient.

"It is a form of marketing, long in use. It has received added attention with the entrance of automobiles which raised the volume to a high figure. Because of this total there has been some uneasiness among sound thinking people, but more particularly among representatives of industries that do not profit by it and therefore do not understand it."

Of the $6,000,000,000 worth of goods which Reeves estimated was purchased annually on the installment plan, he said $3,000,000,000 was for automobiles. This method of selling cars, he said is sound because dealers take into consideration "the three c's (cq) of credit; Character, Capacity to pay, and Capital of the buyer."

Annual Bazaar of First M. E. Church Thursday

A New Feature This Year Will be The Japanese Tea Garden and Gift Shop.

Preparations have been in progress for several weeks for the annual bazaar which the women of the First Methodist Church will give all day Thursday in the basement of the church. Gayly decorated booths from which needlework, linens, novelties, aprons, candy and numerous gift articles will be sold, are being placed in the basement rooms. The fancy work booth is under the direction of the young matrons' division of the Ladies Aid Society with Mrs. Arthur Brewer as chairman. Assisting Mrs. Brewer will be Miss Mae Corwin, Mrs. M. L. Beattie and Mrs. W. J. Montgomery.

The useful articles booth will be in charge of Mrs. J. S. Ford's division and she will be assisted by Mrs. D. N. Scott and Mrs. Anna Stauble. Two divisions of the society headed by Mrs. Warren Jones and Mrs. J. P. Price will have charge of the Harvest Home booth where Mrs. J. J. Knabb, Mrs. R. S. Braniger, and Mrs. Herbert Wamsley will assist.

A new feature of the bazaar this year will be the Japanese tea garden and gift shop, with Mrs. Henderson Aley, Mrs. John Z. Curnutt, Mrs. J. F. Montgomery and Mrs. E. G. Orear in charge. Mrs. F. A. McKee and Mrs. H. H. Kerr will have charge of the parcel post booth and the Epworth League will be in charge of the candy booth.

There will be a chicken pie dinner at noon and a fried chicken supper will be served in the evening.

Mars 114,000,000 Miles From U. S.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Mars may be 114,000,000 miles from the United States but Dr. W. W. Coblentz, of the bureau of standards, has just completed the task of taking its temperature, according to announcements from the commerce department.

By using sensative thermocouple mounted in the focus of a reflecting telescope, the scientist found an average temperature of slightly more than 60 degrees is maintained in the solar planet; that nearly perpetual spring prevails.

Dr. Cobelentz, in his studies at Lowell observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz., also discovered that the south pole regions of Mars are much warmer than the north polar section.

Where vegetation exists, as shown by the darker spots on the planet the themocouple registered a higher temperature than in the lighter colored sections, which are presumed to be covered by water.

With the Marsian day 40 minutes longer than on earth, the morning side of Mars is lower in temperature than the afternoon side, Dr. Coblentz declared.

AN ECONOMIC UNION SOUGHT

LEAGUE EXPECTS TO BRING EUROPEAN STATES CLOSER.

COMPETE WITH U. S.

Unless Agreement Is Reached, Leaders Fear Economic Slavery to American Business.

Geneva, Nov. 16.—With the meeting here of the preparatory commission of the League of Nations' International Economic Conference, definite steps were scheduled to be taken towards the eventual attainment of the "United Economic States of Europe."

The commission is expected to put the last touches on the agenda of the plenary economic conference which will then be summoned for early in 1927.

While the conference will be world-wide in its character and will be participated in by all of the leading nations of the world, no secret is made of the fact that the principal object to be attained is the economic reconstruction of Europe, and this by the breaking down of present customs frontiers, that will permit virtually of a solid European, economic block.

Incidentally no secret is made either of the fact that the principal object and necessity of this is to enable Europe, as a continental whole, to meet the ever growing competition of the United States, and to keep from becoming virtually the economic slave of the American continent.

Aside from breaking down customs barriers which divide Europe into a score of rival entities from an economic viewpoint, and wielding her into an economic whole, leading European industrialists and statesmen who are backing the coming conference hope also to arrive at a series of "trust" agreements for each industry that will also prevent "ruinous" competition over production, price cutting and other elements that at present place Europe in an inferior position from the standpoint of American economic competition.

The forerunner of these European "trusts" is the recent steel agreement between the industrialists of France, Germany and other countries. It is hoped to make similar agreements between the industrialists of all the leading industries, such as chemicals, textiles, mining, oil and others.

In this way it is hoped that Europe, with only political boundaries but no economic, customs or other boundaries, can be transformed into a continental, economic whole that will be able to face the competition of the entire world, instead of committing suicide by internal competition?

The commission which met today under the presidency of former Belgian Prime Minister Theunis is composed of forty of the world's leading financiers, economists, industrialists and agricultural experts.

The commission will have before it world-wide reports that have been prepared during the past six months on every phase of the present economic situation. These cover agricultural, currency and population questions; problems concerning industrial production and especially the rationalization of industry, and the marketing generally of all products.

One of the most interesting aspects of the commission's work will be the fight that will be led by Italy to have the problem of imigration placed on the agenda of te international economic conference as one of the most vital factors in the present world-wide economic situation.

To date the commission has not decided whether this is a purely domestic or an international problem but in the meantime has instructed the Italian members of the commission to present all of the data and arguments they have on the question.

When "Uncle Joe" Cannon Was Czar

Uncle Joe's attitude toward tariff reform was here compared with an Arctic ice pack. Part of a cartoon by J. S. Pughe, made when Cannonism was a live issue in the land.

Never did newspaper cartoonists have another target like the one the late "Uncle Joe" Cannon supplied them when he was in his prime. Cannon at the height of his power was the most cartooned man in the country. Here are a few of the sketches of him that various newspaper caricaturists did in the days when he was speaker of the house of representatives and ruled with "a gavel of ion."

Auto Thief Steals Car; Hinders Pursuit

Du Quoin, Ill., Nov. 16.—An enterprising automobile thief invented a new system of car stealing here the other night.

Charles Lombardo, coal miner, stopped at a store to make a purchase, leaving his automobile at the curb. Emerging from the store a minute later, he saw someone driving away with his motor car.

Lombardo stopped another automobile which "happened" to be going by, jumped in, and requested its driver to chase the thief. The driver complied, following the stolen car to the edge of the residential section. But there he halted his automobile and told Lombardo to "beat it."

Authorities declared themselves of the opinion that the driver was an accomplice of the thief and "happened" along at a slow gait just in time to prevent Lombardo from giving the alarm to bystanders.

Plans Complete for Missouri Homecoming

Dedication of Memorial Tower and Stadium and Missouri-Kansas Game Expected to attract 35,000 Persons.

Columbia, Mo., Nov. 16.—Plans are complete for the largest Homecoming celebration in the history of the University of Missouri next Friday and Saturday. Accommodations have been arranged for 35,000 at the annual Missouri-Kansas gridiron battle.

In addition to the football classic, this year the new Memorial Tower and the Memorial Stadium will be formally presented and dedicated as a part of the homecoming program. The two memorials were erected by students and alumni to honor the memory of 117 war dead of the university.

The homecoming program begins Friday afternoon when the yearling squads of the University of Kansas and Missouri tangle. Proceeds of the game will go toward erection of a memorial to Walter Camp at Yale University. A mass meeting, frolic, and informal reception are the salient features of that night.

Saturday morning class reunions in the schools and colleges of the University will be held. Presentation and dedication of the memorials will follow. Governor Baker will attend. Amplifiers have been so arranged that those who can not get near the ceremonies will be able to hear them.

In the afternoon a brief ceremony at the stadium will prelude the Tiger-Jayhawker battle.

All railroads in Missouri, for the first time, have granted round trip passage for the usual one-way fare from all points in Missouri.

JUDITH MARTIN, teaching her first year at Pendleton University, is kissed by ERIC WATERS, on a bet.

DR. PETER DORN also seeks her acquaintance.

MYRA ALDRICH, living at Judith's boarding house, learns that Eric, with whom she is in love, has kissed Judith and breaks off friendly relations with her.

Escaping from a dull faculty tea, Judith hikes into the country with Eric and dines at a roadhouse. It is raided and they escape in a rainstorm to a cabin where Judith is to spend the night, while Eric walks back to town.

Next morning Eric returns with his car, bringing fresh clothing for Judith, which he has asked Myra to pack for him. She reproaches him for telling Myra of the escapade.

The following night, when Judith returns from the movies with Will Wetherel, Will warns her to be careful of Myra hears of the escapade and tries to prejudice Dr. Dorn by hinting of it to him.

Eric takes Judith to dinner at his fraternity house, and afterwards on a moonlight picnic with EVE GERHART, fascinating town widow, WILL WETHEREL, student poseur, and others.

Angered by Wetherel's attentions to Judith, Eric wanders off from the party. Eve Gerhart and the rest start down from the bluff, calling to Judith and Eric to follow.

A rough-looking man steps from between the trees. "Your friend Waters is drunk under a tree back there," he says.

Eric wanders off and gets drunk under a tree when Wetherel pays too much attention to Judith. "Kitty" Shea, an unsavory town character, appears by the bonfire after the other hikers have started down the hill for home. Judith is forced to let him take her and the unconscious Eric back to town in his car.

When they reach her boarding house Myra Aldrich opens the door and laughs scornfully at sight of Shea.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VX.

Neither of them spoke but Myra snapped off the flashlight and ran past Judith up the stairs.

In her room, Judith listened to the noisy departure of Shea's car and then gave way to tears.

An unusual aroma in the room when she awoke next morning puzzled her. But when she had jumped out of bed and crossed the room to the dressing table it was explained. Her coat, lying over a chair, reeked with wood smoke. The odor brought back the memory of the night's escapade.

She dressed languidly and tried to disguise the pallor and circled eyes which told the tale of the last night's experience. But she was conscious of curious glances as she took her seat at the table.

Myra was already there, chattering with Miss McGonigle about the decoration of their rooms. Caroline McGonigle favored lavender curtains and planned to pay for them by "ditching" her Y. W. C. A. dues that month.

"I want a Maxfield Parrish picture and a little plaster bust of Shelley, too," she said. "I know where I can get the Shelley cheap. He's sitting with a lot of kewpies dressed in gold lace on a bargain table at Jarusek's art store."

"Well," said Myra, "what I want is no old poet, but a French doll, with gorgeous, dissipated eyes and a world-weary look. But they're imports and they cost ten dollars. I'm already overdrawn at the bank."

Sissie Dean burst into the room. "Whoop-ee!" she cried. Miss Stedway frowned over her coffee cup. "Convocation today," said Sissie. "No Saturday classes." She sat down with a jolt against the table that set the cups rattling.

"More news, too. Dean Brown's got a line on the mysterious couple that sneaked out of the Blue Moon raid the other night. The officers were sure there was someone in the back room when they entered the place."

"Oo!" squealed Caroline. "How'd he find out?"

"The man came back to town alone, walking along the Granville road a couple of hours later. There were patrolmen on the road who saw him, but they couldn't stop him for they had no charge against him. But the dean claims he knows who he was."

Judith caught Myra looking at her triumphantly and seized the first chance to leave the table.

Her room was in confusion from the hasty dressing of the night before. She began listlessly to straighten it. A time table lying among the books and papers on her desk caught her eye. She picked it up, idly ruffling its pages.

"Saturday special for Middleburg leaves 10:50 a. m." The black type seemed to stand out with special significance. She whirled about and made for the closet. Dragging her suitcase out, she began to throw garments into it. The small clock on the dresser said ten o'clock.

Lillian Stedway stopped her in her flight down the steps, while the taxicab waited. "A Mr. Walters has been calling you. I thought you had left the house. But I told him I'd ask you to call."

"If he phones again," said Judith, "tell him I've gone to Middleburg for the week end." She ran out and slammed the door.

"I've only fifteen minutes to make the westbound train," she cried to the taxi driver. They set off at a reckless pace toward the station. Judith sat with her watch in her hand as they swung into the business district. "Hurry, please," she cried to the driver above the roar of the engine. "I've got to get out of town on that Middleburg train."

He looked at her curiously and stolidly faced his wheel again.

"Lawd-a-massy, what's youah rush?" said the small negro porter as the cab wheeled up to the station platform. "Dat westbound am a half hour late."

Judith followed him into the station and bought her ticket. She was panting with the excitement of the race. When she reached the track platform the porter set her bags down beside her and thrust out his hand for a tip. In her abstraction she gave him a silver dollar and the boy gasped.

A cold drizzle began to fall and Judith moved nearer the baggage shed for shelter. Beneath its eaves she ran unceremoniously into a man and woman standing under a large cotton umbrella. The umbrella bobbed back to reveal the dismayed face of Dean Timothy Brown.

"I bed your pardon," said Judith.

The dean bowed stiffly. "How do you do, Miss Martin? I think you have met my wife."

"Yes," said Judith, "at the president's tea."

"Are you going to the city?" the dean continued.

Judith nodded. "For two days, I've been quite stale lately and thought a change of scenery might do me good. There's a musical comedy in Middleburg that I want to see. I want to forget school teaching for the whole week end."

The dean raised his eyebrows. "Mrs. Brown is taking the Middleburg train, too, but she will stop at Roxville to visit relatives."

Mrs. Brown was looking at the brick pavement. She had made no move toward entering the conversation.

"I shall be glad to have someone to talk to," said Judith. Mrs. Brown made no response.

As a man passed behind Judith, the dean's wife started slightly. Judith looked around and the dean looked, too.

"Good morning, Judy," said Kitty Shea, thrusting his thumbs into the armholes of a green and white vest and grinning.

Judith nodded. She could not speak. The dean's eyes were on her and the dean's wife was looking at Shea blankly. There was an awkward moment as the man walked carelessly away.

The train whistle down the track shrieked just then and Judith picked up her traveling bag. The dean reached for it but she declined the service and he walked to the train between the two women, trying to shelter both under his umbrella.

"Goodby, my dear," he said to his wife. She repeated the farewell tonelessly. Judith noticed that she did not kiss her husband, nor did he offer her a salute.

He established them in a seat which two shouting freshmen were just about to pounce upon. The freshmen gave him a resentful look and slouched away.

The dean put a ticket in his wife's hand and cautioned her not to lose it with the manner of a father instructing his small child. His broad brown back retreated down the aisle and the two women looked at each other.

Judith smiled. "You don't know what a relief it is to get away for a couple of days from the schoolteacher role," she said impulsively. The dean's wife looked at her with questioning in her eyes.

"Are you to visit friends, Miss Martin?" Her voice seemed slightly anxious.

"No," said Judith. "I don't know a soul in Middleburg. That's why I'm going there for a rest. I mean to get a room at the best hotel and play grand dame for two days."

The dean's wife turned her pale face toward the girl. "What hotel do you consider the best?"

"Oh, the Chamberlain," Judith answered lightly.

The conversation flagged. Mrs. Brown sat moodily looking out the window and Judith tried to read a magazine.

After a time the dean's wife rose. "If you will excuse me Miss Martin, I think I'll go into the next car. I saw one of my neighbors get into it at the Pendleton station and I'd like to talk to her for a few minutes."

Judith nodded and rose to let her pass. It was possibly a half hour later that a porter came to Judith. "Mis' Brown sent me after her baggage, miss," he explained. "Said she guessed she wouldn't get back in here to see you again. We're gettin' near her destination."

Judith was submerged in her magazine when the train pulled into Roxville. She did not look up until they were speeding away from the station again.

Middleburg was busy in the bustling, ambitious way that middle western cities affect. Judith found its streets noisy and crowded as her taxi crawled toward the Chamberlain hotel.

A shoe dealers' convention had monopolized all the rooms at this hostelry and Judith sought a lodging at the second best hotel two blocks farther uptown. She noticed that the theater she wished to attend that night was less than a block away.

Jazz music from the hotel cafe drifted into her room as she dressed at seven o'clock. The white-tiled bath and thick carpets and large mirror seemed particularly delightful after the meager comforts of the Stedway household.

There was just time to snatch a sandwich in the coffee room before going to the theater. Judith stepped into the evening glitter of Walnut street, humming a little tune of contentment.

The magic of the playhouse swallowed her up as she stepped under its brilliant archway.

Three hours later, with the melodies of the revue still singing in her ears, Judith came out again and turned her steps toward the hotel. The night had turned off clear and cold with the first hint that October's radiance was slipping away before the searching winds of November.

In the lobby of the hotel Judith stopped a moment. The gay dance music still sounded from the cafe. She powdered her nose and turned toward the dining room. The head waiter found her a small table near the balcony and sent a man to take her order. Judith studied the menu.

When she looked up from it two persons were taking seats at the next table. One of them was the dean's wife. The other was a young and personable man, who bent to remove her wrap with deft, caressing hands.

(To Be Continued)

Dean Brown's wife finds a friend in Judith in the next chapter, and Judith, to keep from betraying her, gets in trouble herself.

WHY OLD FOLKS NEED WATER WHEN ILL

When a Person Gets on in Years It Is Highly Important That Sufficient Liquid Be Taken to Dissolve the Bodily Wastes.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator From New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Today I have it in mind to tell you something of unusual importance. While it is a simple matter, attention to it may result in saving a life.

When old people get sick their vitality slips away very quickly. An illness may result fatally within a few days.

There is prostration which increases each hour. The weakness becomes profound. The heart lags. Unconsciousness and death are not far away.

It makes little difference what you call the disease—the ultimate symptoms and course are the same. A simple dysentery, an aggravated diarrhoea, a mild "ptomaine poisoning," over-exposure to the sun, the after-shock of an accident or operation—any one of these may be followed by the prostration and sinking I have described.

A year ago and again this past Summer I saw almost identical cases in the same household. Both the patients were advanced in years. Both had simple dysentery. The bowel trouble disappeared in two or three days, but the depression and profound weakness continued for a week or more. One patient died, the other recovered.

Doctors are inclined to use a lot of big words. One such word is "dehydration."

You know what dehydrated fruits are—dried apples are an example. The juices have been taken out by special processes or by exposure to the sun and air.

Applied to human beings, dehydration means the abnormal and unusual extraction of water from the tissues of the body. By taking away from the diet all water and juicy foods, you can see that the body would be rapidly dehydrated. To take the place of this fluid the liquid part of the blood would be used by the system. Great harm is sure to follow.

The blood vessels must be kept full of liquid. Otherwise the heart lags and the blood pressure falls.

Unless the wastes of the body are dissolved the kidneys cannot act as they should. The poisons cannot be eliminated by these organs and the skin.

Without an abundance of water there is sure to be trouble. With no water at all, death is certain.

In such a case as the one we are considering today don't worry about food. The patient will be better off without it and will reject it anyway.

But you must give water. Water, water, and more water—this is the secret of cure. Don't permit dehydration. Feed the water out of a spoon drop by drop if need be. Encourage the patient to sip and to drink water. No matter what else you do or do not do, give lots and lots of water.

The first of the two patients I mentioned would not take water. She died. The second patient co-operated. He took the water and recovered.

Of course there are other factors involved in the treatment, but first and foremost is the giving of water.

New Ore Deposits Are Found in Russia

Moscow.—New and rich ore deposits have been discovered in the Kirgess Steppe, in the Nerchinsk and Baikal districts of Russia. Prof. Katulsky, vice-director of the Geological Committee of the Soviet Government, reported the find on his return from a recent survey.

A vein of ore about four feet thick, containing gold, copper, zinc, lead and silver in extraordinary quantities, was discovered. Rich deposits of coal about thirty-five versts from the Alexandrovsky mines in this vicinity also were discovered by the scientists, which will facilitate the working of the new veins.

CATTLE STEADY: HOGS HIGHER. LAMBS LOWER.

Kansas City, Nov. 16.—After a slow opening trade in fat cattle became active at steady prices and stockers and feeders ruled stronger. Heavy killing calves were slightly lower. These changes left the general market in about the same position as late last week. The per cent of fat cattle was small and the per cent of stockers and feeders unusually large. Hog prices rallied 10 to 15 cents, the first unturn the market has shown for some time past. Trade was active. Lambs were 25 cents lower and sheep were steady.

Today's Receipts.

Receipts Monday were 29,000 cattle, 10,000 hogs, and 6,000 sheep, compared with 33,000 cattle, 8,000 hogs, and 7,000 sheep a week ago, and 23,750 cattle, 9,575 hogs, and 6,950 sheep a year ago.

Beef Cattle

Steady prices were quoted for fat steers. Receipts were moderate and quality below the average of preceeding Mondays. Short fed grades predominated. Sales to killers ranged from $6.50 to $10.50 and were grass fat to short fed grades. Prime steers last weeks brought $10.50 to $12.35, and had they been available today they would have sold fully as high. Cattle that show good to choice finish will be scarce from now on. About 40 car loads of fat steers and a number of individual fat steers shown at the Royal this week will be sold at auction. Canner and cutter cows were quoted weak. Other classes of butcher cattle, except heavy killing calves, which were lower, were fully steady. Bulls were strong to 15 cents higher. Veal calves were steady. Fed heifers were scarce.

Stockers and Feeders.

While receipts of stockers and feeders were large, demand was liberal the rest of the week, but as the range movement is about over, November will conclude the big supply for this year.

Hogs.

Hog prices were up 10 to 15 cents from last weeks low close, when quotations were in the lowest position of the year. This advance has brought an end to the downward movement which has been only a moderate rally firm prices are expected the rest of this month. The 180 to 250 pound hogs sold at $11.40 to $11.75; 250 to 280 $11.25 to $11.50; 280 to 325 pounds, $11. to $11.35; packing sows $10 to $10.75, and stock hogs and pigs $11 to $11.75.

Sheep and Lambs.

Lambs were 25 cents lower and sheep steady. Trade was active. Lambs brought $12.25 to $13.; yearlings $9.50 to $10.50; ewes $5. to $6.50; wethers $7.50 to $8. The range movement is over and fed classes are beginning to move.

Horses and Mules.

Demand for horses and mules has improved. Prices are firm.

American Royal.

The American Royal now in progress, is drawing a large attendance. With prospects for the best show on record.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Wheat bobbed downward on the Chicago Board of Trade today after a day of nervous fluctuation, but failed to carry other grains with it.

Slumping to a new low on the movement, wheat closed 1⅜ to 1½ cents lower.

Strong from the beginning, corn seems to have shaken off the steady decline that has marked its progress of late. Corn closed ¼ to ⅜ cents higher.

Oats lost ground, closing ¼ to ⅜ cents lower, with cash steady.

Provisions were steady.

ATTRACTED BY BOOKLET

Read of Other Women Who Found Health

Brooklyn, New York.—Mrs. G. Hegmann of 35 Central Ave., was in a run-down condition and could not do her housework. She could not sleep at night. Her story is not an unusual one. Thousands of women find themselves in a similar condition at some time in their lives. "I found your advertisement in my letter box," wrote Mrs. Hegmann, "and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got relief." Mrs. Hegmann also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine and Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation, with good results. She says, "I am recommending your medicines to all I know who have symptoms the same as mine, and to others whom I think it will help. You may use my statement as a testimonial, and I will answer any letters sent to me by women who would like information regarding your medicines."

There are women in your state—perhaps in your town—who have written letters similar to this one telling how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them.

The Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass., will gladly furnish other women with these names upon request.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Bitterness of Sorrow

IF I HAD ONLY NOT BEEN SUCH A SELFISH, UNREASONING FOOL A YEAR AGO ANNIE WOULD NOT HAVE LEFT US AND THIS NEVER WOULD HAVE HAPPENED - HOW COULD I EVER HAVE BEEN SO CRUEL TO HER? OH, OLIVER, IT IS ALL MY FAULT -
THERE-THERE- IT CAN'T BE HELPED NOW! ANNIE LOVES YOU - NO ONE COULD BLAME YOU - IT WAS JUST MEANT TO HAPPEN THIS WAY I GUESS -
I AM THE ONE WHO SHOULD BE MADE TO SUFFER - WHAT DID ANNIE EVER DO TO DESERVE THIS? OH - OH - OH..
THE SWEETEST, TRUEST CHILD IN THE WORLD TO BE DOOMED TO GO THROUGH LIFE A CRIPPLE - TO LOOK FORWARD TO YEAR AFTER YEAR WITH NO HOPE WHATEVER - AND THEY CALL THAT LIFE, DO THEY?
OH, HOW CAN A PROVIDENCE THEY CLAIM IS JUST BE SO CRUEL AND UNFAIR?

RULE CHANGES IN H. S. ASSN.

ELIGIBILITY OF PLAYERS AFFECTED.

DISTRICTS UNALTERED

Trenton Man Is Re-Elected President.—A Junior College Conference Regarded With Favor.

Several changes were made in the constitution of the Missouri High School Athletic association at a meeting held in Kansas City last week. No change was made in the district zoning of schools, Maryville and Nodaway County remaining in the Northwest district. Other counties in this district are: Atchison, Andrew, Buchanan, Caldwell, Carroll, Clay, Clinton, Daviess, DeKalb, Gentry, Grundy, Harrison, Holt, Livingston, Mercer, Platte, Ray and Worth.

The changes in the constitution were:

1. A student must be making passing mark in a sufficient number of subjects to earn a total of 11½ units of credit per semester to be eligible for athletics.

2. He must have earned at least 3½ units of credit the preceding semester, providing unless he has good excuse for dropping his work and is reinstated with full standing by the board of control.

3. No player may represent school for more than four years in any branch of athletics.

4. Student must enter schools within eleven days of semester in which he is competing.

5. He shall be an amateur.

6. A school may be suspended from the association for not less than one year by a majority of the board of control.

7. The number of football games for any one team shall not exceed 19 for each season. The number of basketball games shall not exceed 18 for the season.

8. Coaches other than those regularly employed as certified teachers are prohibited.

Proposed amendments to fix the age limit of athletes at 20 instead of 21 and disqualify for the season any player beharred from a game for unsportsmanlike conduct were rejected by the association.

Discussion by the board concerning the organization of a junior college conference in Northwest Missouri was looked upon with great favor . The members of this conference would be Conception College, Palmer College, Kidder Institute, Bethany Junior College, Trenton Junior College, and the junior college of Kansas City.

Supt. O. G. Sanford of Trenton was re-elected president of the state association. Membership in the association was increased from 267 to 300 high schools in the state. The association was organized last year for the purpose of promoting better sportsmanship and scholastic standards in high school athletics and its work had been attended by signal success from the outset.

ployes may elect to come within the act.

All employers are required to carry liability insurance, unless they prove to the commission their ability to carry their own risk. No part of the cost of insurance is to be assessed against the employe and reprisal upon employes who decline to accept the act is prohibited.

Limits Attorneys' Fees.

The act is designed, among other things to protect the employes against ravenous lawyers and specifies on this point: "All attorneys' fees for services shall be limited to such charges as are fair and reasonable and shall be subject to regulation by the commission."

The commission created to administer the law will be composed of three members at salaries of $4,500 a year. One must be of one dominant political party. A second must be of a second dominant political party. One must be classed as an employer; another as an employe. The third member must be a lawyer. The commission may appoint a secretary at $3,600 a year and a medical adviser at $4,000 a year. The Attorney-General acts as the commission's legal adviser. Expenses of carrying out the act will be taken from an assessment of 2 per cent of the deposits or premiums paid to insurance companies and will be paid by the insurance companies.

The first commission will be composed of one member appointed by the Governor for two years, one for four years and one for six years. Thereafter, all terms will be six years.

Original hearings before the commission will be held in the county in which an accident occurs. Review hearings will be held where the commission determines. Offices will be maintained in St. Louis, Kansas City and Jefferson City. The commission is required to expedite hearings.

Missouri was tardy in adopting workmen's compensation, being the forty-third State. However, it is asserted that benefits now provided are third highest among the states.

Official Count Shows Gantt Winner by 1,218

Lee's Lead Mounts to 18,161, Hawes' To 35,361—Proposal No. 4 Defeated 569,931 to 294,388.

Jefferson City, Nov. 16.—Judge Ernest S. Gantt of Mexico, Democratic member elect of division No. 1 of the Missouri supreme court, defeated his Republican opponent, Judge Robert W. Otto, who was running to succeed himself, by the narrow margin of 1,218 votes, the official canvass of the November 2 election results, completed late yesterday by employees of the secretary of state, shows.

Gantt's total vote was 492,456, Otto 491,238.

The majority of Charles A. Lee, Democrat, re-elected state superintendent of schools, mounted to 18,161 over W. S. Smith of Excelsior Springs, Republican, the tabulation shows.

Lee received 501,230, Smith 483,069 votes.

Senator George H. Williams, appointed by Governor Baker to fill out the term of the late Senator Selden P. Spencer, was defeated by 35,361 for the long term by Harry B. Hawes, Democratic opponent, and by 41,321 for the short term.

The vote, long term, Hawes 506,015, Williams 470,654; short term, Hawes 514,389, Williams 470,654.

The official count on the initiative and referendum proposals:

Referendum proposal No. 1 (workmen's compensation)—Yes, 561,898; no 252,882.

Initiative proposal No. 2 (police pensions)—Yes, 523,634; no, 277,450.

Initiative proposal No. 3 (workmen's compensation act, offered by recalcitrant labor interests and damage suit lawyers in an effort to defeat proposal No. 1)—Yes, 160,645; no, 612,392.

Initiative proposal No. 4 (for repeal of state prohibition law)—Yes, 294,388; no, 569,931.

Race a Close One.

The race for the supreme judgeship was one of the closest in years. In 1918, however, Judge W. W. Graves, Democrat ,was elected to the supreme bench by only 638 votes.

Judge Otto will not contest the election of Judge Gantt, he reiterated late yesterday when the official count was finished. Judge Otto said he still held to his recent declaration that if Judge Gantt was elected by only one vote, he would not contest it.

Judge Otto sent the following telegram to Judge Gantt immediately after the official tabulation was completed:

"I desire to extend my sincere congratulations upon your election as judge of the supreme court."

The defeated supeme judge said he also was writing Judge Gantt inviting him to come here soon for a conference relatives to affairs of the office.
